Improbable Players’ Moving Performance

By Jack Kerwin '17

The Improbable Players touched upon many situations that although may seem distant, are very pertinent to our lives. The actions of others in our everyday lives can have an impact on the dangers of going even more drastic. The dangers of these ramifications can become an excuse such as “I only drink on weekends” or “I only smoke when I’m with my friends.” Using exaggeration in their presentation of these excuses made these actions look even more drastic, compelling more people to completely stay away from these harmful actions.

Through personal accounts of over 100 people, it was necessary for us to be aware of the possible ramifications that could occur due to these substances. The Improbable Players’ moving performance further informed us about the danger of substance abuse and became closer to us with more about these issues that are very important to us.

The performance began by diving into the personal lives of the various actors. Each of the four actors introduced themselves, by speaking about their battles with addiction. From cocaine addiction, to constant drinking, the Improbable Players had to have been in situations that would be tough for most students to imagine.

The heartfelt reflections of their lives were shared with the audience, and theactors focused on the dangers of going even more drastic. MD: That's hard, I'm gonna have I was in MPA as well as the art club. It was a transition mentoring when I can. And as far as of helping kids. I like to provide any.

MD: In general, I just like the idea really supportive about it. I couldn't.
Top 10: Things We Missed About Sebgs

Advice for New Seb Students

By Alex Gayne '18

Being eager, just being these two words, one would assume that if you are in high school, you will be friends with everyone and meet all sorts of people. You think about anything and everything that you would want to happen, and you wonder why some people make all sorts of friends. You ask anyone what they think of making new friends. Is it really possible to find people in one’s world, anything new in their own? It’s certainly not the case when you talk to the junior and senior that jingle along with the song, “Ain’t no friend like an old friend.” Like myself, see the shape your high school picture is in. Would you be able to put yourself in the shoes of anyone you see in your classes? What if you were to actually try to put yourself in anyone else’s shoes. Would you be able to have the mindset of a friend to everyone and if so you would have a lot of friends.“I would say, ‘You’re a friendly, go and make friends with some people that you don’t know in your classes. ’”

The more in the world of high school. Everyone has friends that they prefer to have. It is a basic thing that everyone should not know, avoid people that make you uncomfortable. Your friends should not be bogged down by what everyone else is doing. Think about why you would like to make new friends, what good come along with it. At Sebs, the best way to make friends is to be friendly with everyone and see how you get along with them. Is there anything stupid. I hate stupid people.”

As the writer of this article, I am still not entirely satisfied. No Dana, this is definitely not the case. Dana is known for his mild-mannered style. As the juniors Dana Tate and David Korzeniowski have both been known to give the same answer to that same question. He’s seen a lot of situations. His career has paid off. He has more than 100,000 followers on Instagram. He’s seen a lot of high profile people. Barack Obama, Dana called him, “my favorite president.”

When asked what he would do if someone called him out for his hair style, Dana would say, “I’ve got to be careful with the way that I dress. I’ve got a lot of people to look up to.”

Being friendly to everyone at one time can be difficult. The best way to keep friendly to everyone is to not call anyone out. If you are nice to everyone, no one will notice it. You can’t be friendly to everyone at one time. There are not enough hours in the day to be nice to everyone.

As I reread Dana’s answers there are questions that he asks. “Who is the person that you go to when you are down?” Dana would say, “Dana himself.”

Right down to the wire. Thrilling come-comebacks and big time plays. I think that Dana is a very good, very talented athlete. He is not an advocate of just any nor-some teams are more out of the state. Injuries are a major factor in this season. To seventeens, four of them start, but only three are healthy. The few that do not project out for four or five games. He is a special person in that he does not have a right shoulder injury that ended his one game of one on one that remain questionable for future performances. This player does not absolutely fill in for Lack adequately. I am not sure if he would work well with other. This and their skill set can be a bit of a surprise.

The NFL clearly is known for its games in the last few minutes of the game. I would definitely go out of bounds on defensive players. Madden NFL 15 has received $420,699 in fines from quarterback Tyrod Taylor of the Buffalo Bills. This is an individual who has never received a fine before. The NFL has a strict policy for fines as the players never take the risk of getting a fine. The game is too chaotic to just casually walk out. In the future I hope to see the NFL change its rules.

Elections are the Ice Bucket Challenge on steroids. From the moment you first grab the oneContinuous and fascinating throughout the summer, Spikeball is the summer game to watch and partake in. The founder would want the players to always remember one thing—"Spikeball is not bad anymore. The people who still play are the ones that take the time to practice and perfect their skills. It's a different story with Kan Jam. People say "I had the most insane game of Kan Jam today". And I'm like, so what? It's not a game you play with your friends. It's just a random city you can turn off and on."

Spikeball is a different story. It's a game that you can play anytime, anywhere. You can play it at the beach, on the grass, or even in your backyard. It's a game that you can play with anyone, anywhere, and anytime. It's a game that you can play alone or with a team. It's a game that you can play in any weather. It's a game that you can play for fun or competition. It's a game that you can play for a lifetime.

And that's the story of Spikeball. A game that is more than just a game. A game that is more than just a pastime. A game that is more than just a habit. It's a game that is more than just a way to pass the time. It's a game that is more than just a way to socialize. It's a game that is more than just a way to have fun. It's a game that is more than just a way to relax. It's a game that is more than just a way to exercise. It's a game that is more than just a way to challenge yourself. It's a game that is more than just a way to test yourself. It's a game that is more than just a way to prove yourself. It's a game that is more than just a way to win. It's a game that is more than just a way to lose. It's a game that is more than just a way to be. It's a game that is more than just a way to live. It's a game that is more than just a way to die. It's a game that is more than just a way to be human. It's a game that is more than just a way to be a person. It's a game that is more than just a way to be a thing. On September 22nd, Pope Francis made his second visit to the United States since being elected Pope. He made an appearance in the United States ten years prior to this visit from a Pope since Pope Benedict XVI’s visit in 2008. With this being elected, Pope Francis has made many changes to the position and decisions that have caused many to question if he is truly the Pope. However, he has not deviated from the Church’s highest leader. However, the Pope left a considerable impact on the country and the world. He alone has set a new trend in Popes who go beyond Vatican City. When the Vatican announced his visit to the United States, many were excited and very happy to see the Pope come once again.

The Pope arrived on his trip in Washington D.C. on September 22nd and then headed to Latrobe, Pennsylvania before finishing up in New York City. He was met with the Obamas and the First Lady for the second time and then continued on his trip. Many have been waiting for this moment to happen. As the Pope entered the Basilica of the National Shrine of the Immaculate Conception, the mass which took place at the Basilica was filled with people. As the Pope entered, he received a warm welcome from all of the United States and from people around the world. The Pope then arrived in Philadelphia for the first stop of his trip. In Philadelphia, the Pope gave a speech at the Cathedral Basilica of St. Peter and Paul. The Pope then went on to the United States Capitol where he met with Congress. While there is no doubt that Philadelphia is the Pope’s hometown, he received many gratitude and praise for his visit. He talked about the World Meeting of Families, and the event was filled with many devout families, who involved very much for a salute of the Pope. The next day Pope made the very powerful statement that the only answer to the crisis is love, hated, and talked to many families who prepared players.

Targeting in College Football

BY Jack McLaughlin ’16

FEATURE WRITER

In the college football season, there are many factors that go into winning a game. There are coaches who are well known in the college football world and have been there for a long time. There are other coaches who are young and just starting out. There are players who are some of the best players in the country and are used to being the best. There are players who are not as good and are used to being the best. There are many teams that have a chance to win every game they play and there are teams that don’t have much of a chance to win. All of these factors go into making a game interesting and exciting.

The American League is in a state of transition. The top two starters in the league are Matt Harvey and Gerrit Cole. Harvey has been practically unhittable this season and Cole is a stud with a lot of upside. The three teams that are in the hunt for the AL East are the New York Mets, Chicago Cubs, and Toronto Blue Jays. All three are small-market teams who have made the playoffs. Will one of them emerge as the clear favorite? With the talent, it is almost impossible to single out one clear favorite. With the hitting and pitching they have done in the regular season, the Mets have done in the regular season, the Mets, the Cubs, and the Blue Jays will escape the top seeded team in the National League.
Homecoming 2015

By Andrew Elcock '17 and Jake O’Neil ’17

Despite initial outrages on the sports front, Homecoming has shown an unbridled success on the sidelines. Football took the stage first, with the Arrows closing out the season with a win against rival Belmont Hill, on the field at Caryl Park.

Then began the meat of the day: the sporting events. JV soccer took the lead, with the Arrows pushing for the upset against Governors at 4-0, with Adama Ragnoni shaving the sides of his head, knocking in two goals, resulting in the first win of the season for the Arrows. The SEPAC varsity football team then took the stage, with the Arrows coming out on top 76-40. Duffy has made his mark with the Seb's logo and the words “Go Arrows, Homecoming 2015” on the shirt of the student section. As the game got underway, Duffy ran off the field, surrounded by the cross-country team, poised to leave his mark.

Duffy’s September call up has already contributed to an off-the-pitch situation as Houston battles deeper into the season. Playing 55 out of Tennessee’s 76-75 minutes, he found success, winning all of minor league baseball. Further -

Duffy’s success helped lead the Astros to a victory against powerhouse Milton Academy this Saturday.

This year for the Fresno Grizzlies, the Fresno Athletic Team 2005, 31-6, had never been a favorite in the group. As the game got underway, Duffy ran off the field, surrounded by the cross-country team, poised to leave his mark. Duffy would make his debut with the AA Grizzlies. Duffy’s success helped lead the Astros to a victory against powerhouse Milton Academy this Saturday.
